

I disagree with the media ownership ruling today, June 2. It is so important to democracy that a diversity of voices be heard, that there is a system in place to encourage more information and viewpoints to be out there. How does the public benefit from one company with its own agenda, owning most or all of the media in a community? I think it doesn't.